16. P) For instance, Parliament sessions have been postponed to avoid providing a platform to the opposition ahead of a crucial state election; the intersession period is often used to bring ordinances that the government may otherwise find difficult to push through in Parliament. ✓

Q) Having assumed the power to decide the dates of a session to itself, the executive is able to control the agenda in various manners.

R) Though the President summons and prorogues a session, they do so on the aid and advice of the council of ministers. ✓

S) At the outset, it must be noted that it is disconcerting that the Indian Parliament itself has no control over when a session may be called and when it is adjourned. ✓

- Q) The river has its source in Aksai Chin, on China's side of the LAC, and it flows from the east to Ladakh, where it meets the Shyok River on India's side of the LAC.
- R) The valley is strategically located between Ladakh in the west and Aksai Chin in the east, which is currently controlled by China as part of its Xinjiang Uyghur Autonomous Region.
- S) The valley refers to the land that sits between steep mountains that buffet the Galwan River.

3) P) I became a father on April 21, 2012, when my son, Fox, was born.

Q) Being a father is wonderful, and easily the most important aspect of my life.

R) So, in a way, being a father prepared me for the current situation we're in.

S) You quickly learn the importance of fluidity.

- ✓ 4) P) The more water used in a toilet bowl, Wang's team found, the greater the force of the flush.
- Q) Shortly after flushing, water rushes into the bowl, striking the opposite side with enough force to generate a vortex that forcefully pushes not only the liquid, but also the air inside the toilet.
- R) According to their simulations, this combination launches aerosols that can last in the air for just over a minute.
- ✓ S) For the latest study, Wang's team used computer models to show that tiny droplets called aerosols, created by the turbulence of water sloshing inside a toilet bowl. could be ejected up to three feet into the air.

5. P) In 1995, astronomers at last found the first planet orbiting a faraway, sun-like star.
- Q) Since then, however, astronomers have discovered thousands of exoplanets or planets orbiting other stars and many have conditions that could be favorable to life.
- R) Six decades after Ozma, we know that planets vastly outnumber stars in the Milky Way, providing billions of places for alien metabolisms to emerge.
- S) The massive Jupiter-like world, called 51 Pegasi b, is completely inhospitable for life as we know it.

6. P) In 2019, that number dropped to four newborns.
 Q) In 2018, for instance, scientists found a total of 58 calves living in these southwestern steppes.
 R) Because this population of the critically endangered species is the country's smallest and most imperiled, the results are usually not encouraging.
 S) Each spring since 2007, scientists have scoured Kazakhstan's Ustyurt Plateau for baby saiga antelope.

7. P) Considering how many saiga formerly traveled these steppes, a few hundred newborns is a very small number, cautions Milner-Gulland, who was not involved in the discovery.

Q) But in a decade during which many experts have been concerned that the Ustyurt Plateau population is on its way to disappearing altogether, it is a promising sign.

R) "Any baby saiga is a good news story."

S) The saiga population is "still hovering on the brink, but it's going in the right direction," she says.

8. P) Somaliland is an autonomous region of Somalia in the Horn of Africa that declared independence in 1991 at the start of a civil war that continues today.
- Q) But with a series of droughts in recent years, those ways are disappearing fast.
- R) Like many Somalis, Rahma doesn't keep track of her year of birth but counts her age by the annual rains.
- S) Many Somalis are semi nomadic herders who for as long as anyone can remember have moved with their animals to find the greenest pastures.

9. P) Understand the first one. For your spiritual growth, it is important that you give yourself the tough love of a father, the unconditional love of a mother and the wisdom-love of a guru.
- Q) One whether you are a parent or not, and the other for parents.
- R) One from a spiritual perspective and other from a parental perspective.

10. P) Happiness is natural, sorrow isn't.

Q) Whenever you are aligned to your true nature, you are happy; and whenever you are not, you experience unhappiness, sorrow and uneasiness.

R) The society says, it's due to inflation, etc. and the so-called religious ones say, it's the fruit of your past sinful deeds.

S) However, you are never made aware of this reason for unhappiness.
