ABOUT MARTINEZ FELLOWS

Seattle Pacific's Martinez Fellowship program is positively changing the culture of education in Washington state. Through graduate-level scholarships, collaboration with teachers of color, coaching and support, the Fellowship helps equip teachers of color so they can flourish.

Martinez Fellows remain in education longer, are better able to withstand burnout, and become education leaders who represent the increasing racial diversity of Washington's students.

By supporting Martinez Fellows you not only help teachers, but also inspire the students they teach. Students of color rarely see someone who looks like them leading their class and you can make this a reality for more students.
