Quantum Advisory strengthens team with appointment of new Principal Consultant

Quantum Advisory, the leading independent financial services consultancy, today announced the appointment of Julian Fox as Principal Consultant. Julian is based in Quantum's Birmingham office supporting the management of administration, consulting and secretarial services in the region.

Rob Palmer, Partner at Quantum Advisory said: "We recognise that one of our key strengths lie in our highly expert team, which is why continuing to invest in talented individuals who support our ethos of innovation, enthusiasm and pragmatism forms a vital part of our long-term growth strategy. Julian's diverse background – both inhouse and on the consultancy side – means he has a deep understanding of client needs and the specific nuances associated with running different types of pension schemes. He is going to be a real asset to my team in Birmingham as we look to meet increasing client demand, whilst continuing to maintain an excellent service. We are pleased to welcome him on board."

Julian Fox added: "Having worked on both sides of the table, I have experienced the benefits of a fully tailored and rounded approach to client service first-hand. What drew me to Quantum, alongside the strength of the team, was its industry reputation for high-quality and practical solutions. I am excited to be joining the business at such a key point of growth."

Julian has over 30 years' experience in the pensions industry, having worked in various consulting and client relationship management roles at JLT, Aon Consulting and Sedgwick Noble Lowndes. Julian has also held Pensions Manager positions at Tarmac Group and the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds.

He holds the Pensions Management Diploma in Retirement Provision and the Chartered Insurance Institute Certificate in Financial Planning.
