QUANTUM MEDICINE - THE POWER OF CONNECTION

Are you a health practitioner looking for a deeper connection to your innate wisdom? Do you seek to improve the experience of the therapeutic encounter and increase the impact of your treatment?

In this experiential workshop led by David Crean, founder of Body Resonance, you will play with consciousness as a physical experience. You will learn to use the body as a 'tuning fork': a resonant field which receives and transmits information. Expanding your conscious presence and becoming more attuned to the resonances of interaction, you will open the door to a more active, creative response in your work with your clients as well as to your life experiences. You will be gently supported to let go of what you know, to dive as deep as you dare in to the quantum field of authentic being.

The workshop is open to anyone working in a healing or therapeutic context with others, whether professionally or voluntarily.
