

WE NEED YOU!

The SLTN Executive Committee is seeking new members to join their team. We represent around 3,500 junior doctors across all specialties in the 10 local education providers (LEPs) and the associated primary care education teams of South London.

What is our mission?

1. To represent all trainees, providing a voice at HEE London and local education providers
2. To showcase the work undertaken by and for trainees at an annual trainee conference, run by the executive committee
3. To facilitate trainee engagement events, providing added value to the core educational opportunities already available around London

You will be expected to:

- Commit to attending and participating in monthly committee meetings
- Represent trainees at external education-related meetings
- Engage with the 10 LEPs and the associated primary care education teams in South London to provide support to trainees within the organisation at a regional level
- Plan and coordinate trainee engagement events e.g. QI showcase, professional development, “meet the expert” sessions
- Take on specific roles within each project as necessary

This is an excellent opportunity to take on a regional leadership and management role and influence training for the better. Applications from trainee representatives are strongly encouraged.

For further information about SLTN and our work, visit our website at www.sltn.london. If have any queries or wish to be considered, please email Anita Cheah at anita.cheah@hee.nhs.uk by Monday 16th September with the following details:

- Your name, speciality and grade, and place of work
- Your CV
- A brief (max. 300 words) statement describing:
 - Why you are interested in joining the SLTNEC
 - What you hope you will bring to the committee (e.g. knowledge, specific skill set etc.)

Interviews will take place at the end of September.
