

Save the Krill

Krill, the life-blood of every larger species living on and around Antarctica, are being strip-mined throughout the Southern Oceans. With words like 'eco' and 'sustainable' being banded around like they're going out of fashion, they're used for anything from pet food to health products. With the promise of more and more fleets heading down to plunder what's left, the trend is very worrying indeed.

These addresses are those of the fisheries and those who are involved in the trade. This plunder will only keep happening if no-one opposes it, so do please make your opinions known. Let's do everything we can, write letters, pass this on to your friends, whatever it takes.

Thank you.
