Miia Koponen is getting dating right for the modern woman

Miia Koponen, a dating expert with 12 years' experience in the industry, has set up her coaching business as a response to a very traditional and outdated dating landscape that still prevails in the UK.

There is still a lot of dating advice out there that condones outdated and sexist practises that will not help people find equal and happy relationships with others, let alone with themselves. A recent article published by a well-known male dating coach on how women should become 'Wife Material' in order to attract a man, strengthened Miia's mission to challenge the status quo and continue developing her own brand and philosophy on equal dating.

As a child, Miia grew up in an environment where these old-fashioned values were the norm. She witnessed how her own parents' relationship was very much based on notions of ownership, attachment and need, ignoring individual desire, and seeing marriage as something that everyone merely 'did' without considering the alternatives.

After years of working with both female and male clients, as well as her own experiences with relationships, she has come to understand that the traditional dating model that we have all been conditioned to accept does not necessarily work for everyone.

Miia has made it her mission to create a healthier, happier and more equal dating and relationship model by changing the way we relate to those areas. She is a female entrepreneur with a plan to shake up the UK dating industry with a fresh and modern approach, and to help people finally get dating right, for them.
