Monalinda: made with love, in New Zealand

At only 26 years old, I must have tried hundreds of different skincare products in my lifetime – it's rare to find one that you want to use again and again.

As women, we are constantly buying, trying, gifting and receiving the latest and greatest eye serums, moisturisers, toners, hand creams, and so much more. In my experience, most of them do work, but it's either only for a short amount of time, or they feel greasy on your skin.

With the advancements in technology, more consumers are investing in skincare that is researched, proven, and has results. Why settle for anything less?

Developed by the well-regarded team at Sapphire Clinic, the Monalinda Skincare range is just that. It's made using active peptides from New
