

CAPITOL LIGHTING

Celebrating 90 Years Of Making Lives Brighter

TEXT Susan Sherman
PHOTOGRAPHY Courtesy of Capitol Lighting

LEFT: Illuminating a bohemian chic space, the "Cordoba" chandelier from Fredrick Ramond Lighting, has many rich textures and organic details that create a sense of casual sophistication and natural elegance.

A family owned tradition celebrating 90 years of "making lives brighter," Capitol Lighting has stood the test of time with leadership that spans five generations. Today, the ARTS award-winning company named "Best Lighting Showroom," holds fast to their familial roots, still helmed by family members that include Chairman of the Board, Herman Lebersfeld, top left, and his son Eric Lebersfeld, President/CMO, bottom left.

From its beginnings as a small shop in New Jersey, to more than 85,174 square feet of gallery showroom space in eight cities, including four in Florida, Capitol continues to illuminate homeowners, designers and custom home builders with its unparalleled expertise. From traditional to transitional, mid-century to modern, they offer the finest in home lighting and accessories, and the guaranteed best prices in-store and online. For more information, visit www.1-800Lighting.com.◆